Health Law

Health Law is one of most complex of legal disciplines. Today, medical improvements along with the increase of new drugs, medical equipment and biotechnology have improved clinical outcomes while creating corresponding new legal issues in the healthcare industry.

Who We Help

There are currently 26 regulated health professions in Ontario. We represent the full range of healthcare clients and subspecialties. Whether you are an individual health care practitioner, laboratory, pharmacy or are part of full service practice; we provide strategic and practical legal advice to a wide range of regulated health professionals.

How We Help

At Pallett Valo we thoroughly understand the laws and regulations that govern the business of health care. Our firm specializes in major areas where law and health intersect. Our comprehensive health law practice provides a tremendous breadth of knowledge and experience for a wide array of medical law concerns.
